OUR STORY: AN AMERICAN INVENTION

QUESTECH

FOUNDED BY AN AMERICAN ARTISAN

ROGER QUESTEL

In 1986, Roger Questel invented Questech Metal in a paper cup in the basement of his wood carving studio in New York City. He mixed metal powder with polymers and ceramics to create the first lightweight metal composite.

Roger moved to Vermont in 1991 and began developing a process to cast decorative tile with a small group of 5 artisans. Today Questech employs over 65 people in Rutland, Vermont, in a 75,00-square-foot facility with a view of Killington Mountain. Questech has over 1000 different designs available in a wide variety of metals and finishes.

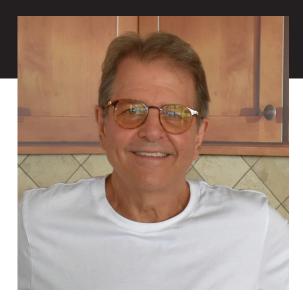

Each original design is hand-made by artists and model makers using techniques that have been developed over the 20-year history of the company. Our products are then cast in molds, using ingredients also manufactured in the USA.

We are very proud of the products we make, the people we employ, and the country we live in. Questech Metal and RQ Home reflect the care and pride we feel in every piece we make. It is our sincere hope you enjoy them as much as enjoy creating them.

We are also proud of the recognition we received along the way for our business innovation, environmental awareness, and design.

"Mass production need be no bar to creative effort if creative effort can give direction and control to production..." - Frank Lloyd Wright

ABOUT THE FOUNDER: ROGER QUESTEL

INVENTOR

AWARD-WINNING CAST METAL INNOVATION

SCULPTOR AND DESIGNER

Roger Questel is a Parson's School of Design Graduate with a degree in Environmental and Product Design.

As a noted designer and an accomplished wood sculptor, Roger was sought after for the exceptional beauty of his work. Roger has been commissioned by many renowned clients including Orson Wells, Ralph Lauren, Gordon Getty and Carly Simon.

In 1990, while seeking to cast his sculptures in bronze, Roger invented a lightweight and affordable metal composite material. Questech Metal took on a life of its own when Roger patented his innovation and founded Questech Corporation.

In 1991, the Smithsonian Institute inducted Questech Metal into its permanent collection of innovative materials at the Cooper-Hewitt National Museum of Design.

Recently, Roger has been inspired by his travels to the far east and has discovered a passion for ceramic sculpture while working in his barn studio in rural Vermont.
